Active Shooter Survival Skills Taught to Businesses and Residents

Most active shooter events end in 10 minutes or less.

Training session provides lessons in preparedness.

Murrieta, CA – Murrieta businesses and residents are invited to sign up for a 2-hour active shooter workshop designed to educate, inform and prepare individuals who might come in contact with an active shooter. With increasing public violence, including the recent Orlando and San Bernardino shootings, employees and civilians are being vigilant about potential violence that they may come in contact with. According to the United States Department of Labor, Occupational Safety & Health Administration, nearly 2 million American workers report having been victims of workplace violence each year. Many additional cases are never reported. Between disgruntled employees, hateful defiance and unstable individuals, violence continues to be an on-going theme in the media. While the arguments of increased gun control laws and second amendment rights are top of mind for Americans, being proactive and prepared is necessary.

"No one can predict when a public shooting might occur. Most active shooter events end in 10 minutes or less. Unfortunately, the average response time for law enforcement is 12 minutes," shares, Michael Julian, CEO of MPS Security, a national security company offering workplace safety trainings, private investigation, body guard and security services. "We are committed to providing an educational program that teaches the skills necessary for survival in the event of a rogue shooter."

The training will include information on workplace violence, active shooter case studies, survival skills, active shooter preparedness. Course will be taught by Michael Julian, CPI, PPS, CSP, a recognized expert in security, executive protection and risk mitigation/management. Attendees will receive a practical understanding of how the information taught relates to them and how it can be used where they work every day.
